An opportunity exists for experienced health professionals to join the Palliative Care Outcomes Collaboration (PCOC) team.

Do you have an interest in:
- working with an internationally recognised palliative care initiative?
- contributing to a leading national outcomes program in the area of palliative care?
- working with services to improve outcomes for patients, families and carers?

Excellent conditions of employment:
- Negotiable employment arrangements:
  - Direct appointment, time-limited secondment or contract
- Flexible location at either campus:
  - Wollongong (University Of Wollongong (UOW) Innovation Campus)
  - Sydney (UOW Sydney Business School, Circular Quay)

About the Role:
- Work as a team member with clinicians, organisations, health services, state and national health bodies and more, to deliver the program at a national level
- Contribute to and disseminate PCOC research outputs through conference presentations and publications
- Enable the development of consistent practices in the collection of PCOC patient outcome measure items
- Facilitate opportunities for services to use their PCOC information as the basis for quality and outcome improvement initiatives
- Provide ongoing support for participating services and facilitate implementation for new services
- Lead PCOC activities and contribute to clinical practice change
